Love Beyond Your Wildest Dreams. By Angela Roth

*As December rushes past us,
Winter nights are drawing in;
Still, uncertainty pursues us,
Causing doubt that we can win.*

*For there's been so many problems,
More, I'm sure, than we had hoped,
Yet with bravery and courage,
We have battled on; we've coped.*

*One by one, lights are appearing,
We see candles start to glow,
Christmas Trees, bedecked, and sparkling,
Each, like beacons in the snow.*

*For we cannot stay despondent,
Living full of fear and gloom;
Lifting hearts in celebration,
Will give joy, the space to bloom.*

*You see Love appeared at Christmas,
Love that cannot be compared,
Love that cancels out the darkness;
Love that simply must be shared!*

*In a stable, born to Mary,
Jesus took His place on Earth,
Though simplicity surrounded,
This miraculous new birth.*

*Joseph watched o'er Babe and Mother.
Knowing well the role he played,
In his heart, perhaps he wondered,
How this child might end His days?*

*For before their journey started,
Joseph had to make a choice,
Would he serve his God and Father?
Would he listen to His voice?*

*Would he take the Virgin Mary,
Now with child, to be his wife?
Would he faithfully protect her,
As she nurtured this new life?*

*Once in Bethlehem, this calling,
Must have seemed so very strange,
As the King, God's Son, was born
Upon this poor and lowly stage.*

*Yet the story still unfolded,
Shepherds came, the Babe to see,
Hurried down the hillside swiftly,
Praising God, they bowed their knee.*

*Then, came Kings, from far off lands
Who also knelt before their Lord,
Bearing gifts, that told a story,
Prophesying to the World.*

*How did Joseph understand this?
How do humans comprehend?
That Our God was born a baby,
So, our lives, He could defend.*

*Left behind His Heavenly Kingdom,
Knowing well the story's close,
Giving up His life to save us,
This the outcome that He chose.*

*Have you heard His message calling,
Spoken out through all the years?
Do you know your name's included?
Bringing freedom from your fears.*

*Are you open to receiving Love,
Beyond your wildest dreams?
Are you willing to step out in faith,
To Jesus, who redeems?*

*His compassion has no equal,
He will comfort you with peace,
He'll show grace and understanding,
Filled with hope that cannot cease.*

*All He asks, is that you listen,
As He calls your precious name'
Be assured, that as you trust Him,
Life will never be the same.*

*He will fill your heart with singing,
He will touch your deepest fear,
He will cancel out the darkness.
By His presence, ever near.*

*For the moment that you give Him,
All your secrets, held within,
Is the moment He forgives you,
And He cancels out your sin.*

*Then, you'll walk this life together,
Stronger, bolder, living free,
Filled with joyful expectation,
Touched by Love eternally.*

With my love this Christmas 2021, Angela xx
